

Pre-School news

Staff farewell

This month we wave an emotional farewell to our super-duper, wonderful and long serving Aunty Beth! Beth has been part of the Pre-School family for 22 years and we are devastated to be losing her. However, we know that she will still keep in touch and (hopefully) bring in breakfast for us occasionally still! The children will be sad to see Beth leave too but she is keen to stay involved behind the scenes so watch this space!

Themes and Intentions

For the last week before we break up we will be exploring Easter and how different families celebrate, if at all. We will play lots of games involving hunting for eggs (non-chocolate), treasure and toys. We would love to hear from families about any celebrations they will take part in so we can talk to the children about them.

After the Easter holidays we will be looking at 'Transport' as lots of the children are particularly interested in anything with wheels at the moment! You can support this learning at home by talking to your children about how things move and looking out for different colour cars that you see out and about.

Parent Consultations

All parents should have received an email inviting them into pre-school to meet with their child's key worker and the rest of the staff team. These meetings have been on hold due to the pandemic restrictions but we now look forward to welcoming parents in to see what their children get up to. Please speak with any staff member to arrange an appointment.

Off-Site Adventures

We have had a marvellous time on our cultural capital adventures this half term! We have been to Cardinham Woods for a very wet Superworm Trail. We then went to Lostwithiel and had the best time at the Fire Station with Guy who inspired lots of children (and Kelly) to be fire fighters when they grow up. Last week we went to The Eden Project which was lots of fun to explore and we were lucky enough to have glorious sunshine each day. This week we are visiting the beach to do a beach clean and think about recycling. Who knows where next week will take us!
